

all except Darrell
you kids to the library in the winter. and you would slide down a small incline on the (ugly side) I remember looking out and Teka was just sitting there forever, so I went outside and said 'come on honey' and she was stuck to the ice, you all just went around her! Dickie Plaisted had polio at that time, a very scary thing for everyone. Bernice and 7 — (another blank) were so good he made me a rug frame, I carried that thing around forever — Wayne worked on the new bridge for awhile (I think) — then he got a job at the trailer sales in D.H. a goofy guy dropped a concrete block on his foot, broke his ankle? So by this time, we went up to Do Do's camp for blueberry season, I raked, and ~~and~~ Wayne took care of the kids, I know he had a lot of help from all of his sisters! The 1st day wasn't bad, but the next day, oh Lord, I could only roll out of bed, but we needed money — so off I went Do-Do and Dale & Herbie always tried to out do each other. They could rake, I'm surprised w/ their abundant chests, they didn't fall flat, but didn't seem to bother them.

Before school started, Wayne decided to go back to 71. By then we had sold the trailer & the truck and he had bought a large black Plymouth car w/ a very fast engine — used to be a cop car. Back then, I'm not sure if there were speed limits? and driving w/ a crutch on the gas pedal was thrilling. We rented for 1 yr. near a school, and then the house on 45th Ave, my 1st house, and I loved it so much. Do & Harlan and Betty & Larry would come to visit, and
